Kanchenjunga - Announcement

Kanchenjunga is a font family for the Kirat Rai script of South Asia. It is named after the third highest mountain in the world.

Please note that this font is using codepoints that are not officially accepted into The Unicode Standard. The Kirat Rai script has been accepted for encoding into the standard, but those codepoints can always change. Once the script is accepted into Unicode the encoding assignments may change.

Changes

- Official release using provisional codepoints

Known issues

- Because this font uses the provisional Unicode codepoints, there is a chance that the codepoints in this font will change. If you use this font, and codepoints are changed, your data will need converting to the new codepoints.

Download the release package from the Download Page.

This guide is from the Kanchenjunga project version 1.000 and is copyright © 2021-2023 SIL International.